

In It For The Money - Advertiser Review

Comedy

Rating: ***

Studio at Bakehouse Theatre

Until March 12

Adelaide comedy duo Andrews and Franzway perform an eclectic mix of silly sketches that are designed to confuse, amuse and bewilder the audience.

Reminiscent of the works of Jim Carrey and Jeff Daniels in Dumb & Dumber, they present a show full of cringey punchlines and slapstick humour.

The sketches are intricate and well thought out – with the pair incorporating all of their jokes into one, to create a fun and punchy storyline.

It is goofy and lighthearted, although few sketches were too predictable, which made it difficult to gain a laugh from the audience.

It will be interesting to see what this duo gets up to in the future.

Kitty Barr – The Advertiser